

Consent to transfer data

The data (e.g. name, matriculation number, date of birth...), which you entered in this form will - if you are selected - be transmitted to the partner university for your nomination. In developing countries, for which there is no "suitable decision" from the EU Commission regarding an adequate level of data protection comparable to that of the EU, there are also no "appropriate safeguards" (specific, officially approved data protection rules). Note that in some countries authorities, companies or private persons in these countries may gain access to your personal data that would not be permitted in the European Union. Accordingly, there are potential risks: the data protection laws or regulations or their application in the recipient country may have a lower level of protection than within the EU. (For example, the level of data protection in the USA is lower. Security authorities, public prosecutors, narcotics authorities, etc. may access data without judicial or other independent control. In the U.S., the recipient is not subject to independent, enforceable and cooperating supervisory authority that would also assist you with any complaints). You may have fewer enforceable data protection rights there than in Europe.

For this application the data transfer is only legally permitted with your consent. The consent can be revoked at any time and upon your revocation, your data may no longer be processed and will be deleted immediately. The revocation of your consent does not affect the legality of the processing carried out up to that point. Please address your revocation to the following:
moveon@tum.de.